

MOLINEUX PLANS

For Future Movements Being Confident of Acquittal
--New Witness to be Introduced by the Defense Wednesday.

New York, Nov. 3.—Unless Governor Black decides at the last moment that it would be unnecessary and unwise, a Brooklyn woman who says she saw a man not Molineux, mail the poison package which figures in the Molineux murder case, will be called to the stand when the trial is resumed on Wednesday. She is willing to testify, and the chances are in favor of her being called.

She asserts that she is absolutely positive in every declaration she makes that her memory in every detail is perfectly clear and distinct, and that if the man whom she saw post the fatal package is in Court, as she presumes he will be, she will point him out. The man she saw waiting in the line before the mailing window two days before Christmas with the poison package in his hand had peculiar and striking features, she says, and adds that she will remember them clearly for years.

This woman is the sensational witness for the defense who has been hinted at vaguely throughout the trial. She is the person to whom General Molineux, the prisoner's father, referred several months ago when he said that the defense had a new witness who would give sensational evidence which would not only clear his son, but implicate some one else. Her name is closely guarded.

District Attorney Osborne, when asked what effect this woman's testi-

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Forty-Two States Vote November 4, Three Having Already Held Their Elections--Officers Who Will be Chosen.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The Democratic Congressional committee this morning gave the final figures and official forecast for tomorrow's election. They give Democrats 185 in the House, Republicans 153, doubtful 28. Other astute calculators give the Democrats 162 congressmen, Republicans 184 and leave 40 in doubt.

Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional committee says the House will contain at least 204 Republicans. The next House will contain at least 29 additional members.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3—Forty-two states will hold elections tomorrow. Maine, Vermont, and Oregon have already chosen their state officials and their representatives in the 55th congress. Nine states will elect congressmen only, 11 will choose minor state officials and congressmen, while the other 22 will elect governors, other state officials and congressmen. Governors and other principal state officers are to be chosen in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, South Carolina, Alabama, Texas, Michigan, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada and California. New Hampshire elects only a governor, Tennessee a governor and railroad commissioner, and Pennsylvania a governor and two other state officials.

In New Orleans Cars Separating Whites From Blacks.

New Orleans, Nov. 3—A law passed at the last session of the state legislature requiring that wire screens be placed in street cars to separate negroes from whites, went into effect this morning. Not all the cars had screens, mere cotton ropes being used instead. A large proportion of the cars are provided with screens according to law, and all will be as soon as the screens can be manufactured.

Strike Is Off.

Tamaqua, Pa., Nov. 3—The threatened strike in the Panther Creek valley condition was not so well this morning, his fever being higher. His pulse reached 98, the highest point during his illness. The fever had mounted to 100. His physicians expressed no anxiety. The "Quiet Hour" was led by Miss Orlena Horne of Columbus, who left soon for Beirut, Syria, to engage in missionary work.

To Use Voting Machines.

New York, Nov. 3—President Veto his of the Board of Elections this morning announced that five voting machines would be used in to-morrow's elections. The way for every Democrat to vote tomorrow is to put the X mark in the circle under the rooster and nowhere else.

IMPORTANT

Question Will be Heard by Justice Hagner Concerning American Citizenship.

Washington Nov. 3—An important question will be heard by Justice Hagner of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia this week involving the right of natives of the Philippines to become American citizens. When Antonio M. Opisso Y. de Yenza late of the Philippines, applied last summer for naturalization papers they were refused inasmuch as applicants for American citizenship must renounce allegiance to the sovereignty of the country from which they came. This of course Senator Opisso was unable to do as the Philippines are not a sovereign power.

BOY

With Part of His Brain Gone on Road to Recovery.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—With part of his brain gone, George Parsons, an 8-year-old San Leandro boy, who was kicked in the head a week ago, still lives. The doctors who attended him deem his case one of the most remarkable in medical science. They removed several spoonfuls of the destroyed brain and pieces of the skull that had lodged there and closed the cavity with a silver plate.

The operation was performed while the boy was perfectly conscious. He has been getting along so well since the treatment that the doctors say he will soon be at play with his friends.

SERMON

On "Manhood and Democracy" Delivered Sunday Night by Rev. T. L. Kiernan.

Rev. T. L. Kiernan pastor of the Fourth Street Congregational church, preached to a large audience Sunday evening, on the subject, "Manhood and Democracy."

The sermon was a pro-election address and the pastor made an eloquent, logical appeal to the voters to appreciate the responsibility that rested upon them to use the ballot in a way that would not violate their consciences or any principle of right. The address was a masterpiece along the lines of thought which the speaker traveled, and during its delivery he paid an eloquent and powerful tribute to this country, its mode of government, the opportunities it offered and the responsibilities it exacted.

MRS. FULTON

Elected Member of the Executive Board at Convention of the King's Daughters.

Bellefontaine, O., Nov. 3—The King's Daughters Saturday afternoon, elected the following officers: State secretary, Miss Amanda S. Bond Toledo; assistant secretary, Mrs. Sophia F. Waldron, Toledo; recording secretary, Mr. James Formanek, Cleveland; treasurer, Mrs. James McCampbell, Marysville; executive board, Mrs. W. D. Fulton, Newark; Mrs. H. B. Shuart, Cleveland; Mrs. Don Williamson, Columbus. These new officers will be installed Sunday evening.

"The Circle's Place in the Work of the Church," was the subject of the paper read by Miss Pearl Hopley, of Bucyrus. A discussion of the individual worth of the members to the order was begun by Mrs. W. D. Fulton of Newark, and very generally engaged in by the delegates.

The "Quiet Hour" was led by Miss Orlena Horne of Columbus, who left soon for Beirut, Syria, to engage in missionary work.

Saturday evening at the First Presbyterian church parson, a banquet was served by the two local circles of King's Daughters. It was the only possible social event of the convention, and the delegates spent the evening there in comfortable enjoyment.

UNCONSCIOUS

William Davis Has Been Since Last Thursday Night—Will Recover, It is Thought.

William Davis, colored man, aged about 55 years, who formerly conducted a restaurant in Granville, and lately in this city on Fourth street, just south of Main was taken with cramps last Thursday night about 11 o'clock. For a time he suffered severely but later sank into a state of unconsciousness from which it has been impossible to arouse him.

Dr. Stone said that the man was suffering from a slight stroke of paralysis, and that he would probably recover.

FOUR DAYS

Yet to be Spent in the Mines—Commissioners Visit Hazleton District This Week.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 3—The mine strike commission left for Hazleton last night to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining. They had not decided up to the time of leaving how they would divide their time while in the middle and lower districts. It was definitely decided though that not more than four days would be devoted to the trip.

Assistant Recorder Neill was left behind to receive the miners' statement from President Mitchell today. On Thursday it is expected the operators' counter statement will be presented.

The commissioners will then take a recess until Friday, Nov. 14, by which time the two parties will be expected to have completed the preparation of their cases and be ready to go on with the hearings. The commissioners will also devote the interim to preparation for the hearings by acquainting themselves with the details of the two statements.

Bishop Spaulding preached at the late mass in St. Peter's cathedral Sunday. His fellow commissioners attended the service and occupied front pews.

No reference was made to the work of the commission and only in a most general way could the sermon be made applicable thereto.

The mines which the commission will visit has not yet been decided upon. Superintendent Warriner has suggested the number 10 shaft, operated by his company. The miners propose to have the arbitrators inspect the Harwood colliery of C. Pardoe & Co.

There are 25 mines in the Hazleton region and about number 40 shafts are entered by means of a slope. The Harwood is a typical mine of that region, and as a commission have tons far only tilted mines with shafts, and have not gone down a single shaft miners think they should close the Harwood.

The commissioners on Saturday requested both sides to agree on an mine, and if they fail the commission will probably decide the matter.

MORE LANDS

Disposed of by the Government Than For Many Years—Figures in a Report.

Washington, Nov. 3.—According to the annual report of Binger Hermen, commissioner of the general land office, made public today, the government has disposed of more lands and received more money from that source than for many years previous. The receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30 last amounted to $6,261,927.16, an increase over 1901 of $1,289,766.32. The total disposals of land amounted to 19,488,535 acres, an increase over the preceding fiscal year of 3,925,737 acres.

THEFT

Of $22,000 in Cash From Wealthy Montana Indian.

Missoula, Mont., Nov. 3—News has just been received here of the theft of $22,000 in cash from a Flathead Indian named Matchell, near the plains in the Western part of the state, on Saturday, during Matchell's absence from home. The robbery was committed by three men one of whom was disguised as a squaw. Matchell's wife was alone in the house when the robbers entered. The disguised men engaged her in conversation and she quickly noticed that he was not a squaw, but a white man. Then she saw his two confederates dash from another part of the house and jump on their horses. The disguised man hurriedly joined them. The stolen money consists of $100 bills and $20 gold pieces. Mitchell was the wealthy Indian on the reservation.

This immense capital lends assurance to the story that the combine will take over the Union stockyards here and the stockyards at South Omaha, St. Joseph and Kansas City, Mo., and East St. Louis. This would give the combination complete control of the packing market and shut any independent competitor from the vantage ground of operating in the yards.

The money market is now the only obstacle in the way of the merger.

BEEF TRUST PLANS PERFECTED WITH $500,000,000 CAPITAL

Full Control of the Packing Market--Purchase of Stockyards Expected to Increase Profits--Higher Prices to Consumers.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—A semi-official statement of the big beef trust plans has been made. The capital is to be $500,000,000. It is to be divided into $100,000,000 bonds, $200,000,000 preferred and $200,000,000 common stock.

The bonds are to be underwritten by the National City Bank syndicate with President James Stillman as the manager. The underwriters are to receive 10 per cent of the bonds. Whether additional compensation is to be paid for in stock is not stated. The bonds if they carry 4 per cent interest would command about 90 in the open market and the proceeds to the trust would be around $81,000,000. It is said that the outside plants purchased will take up the bond proceeds.

This taking in of the stock yards companies which are separate from the packing houses, would give large additional revenue, for they are good earners, and can control live stock prices. The amount raised from the bonds will be used in liquidation of floating debt and payment for the packing plants recently purchased by Swift and Armour. Preparations are being made to resist many state and political attacks on the merger.

GEN. MILES' REPORT

Held Up and Refused Publication by Secretary of War Root

The General Being Absent in the Philippines Advantage is Taken of the Fact to Suppress His Report—Army Officers Discussing the Matter.

Washington, Nov. 3—It is a significant fact, which is being much commented upon by army officers, that the annual report of Lieut. General Miles has not yet been made public although it was submitted to Secretary Root over a month ago. Secretary Root's object in holding up Miles' report is not known but it is hinted that it contains some very strong arguments against the adoption of the President's plan for a general staff of the army. General Miles' opposition to this scheme has been well known to everybody for a long time. Last winter he expressed himself on more than one occasion and finally appeared before that law has tended to promote the efficiency and discipline of the army.

A Little Child's Loneliness.

Little Mabel, says the Woman's Journal, had been put to bed alone. Presently she appeared in her nightgown at the head of the stairs, saying plaintively, "I'm lonesome." Her mother gave her favorite rubber doll named Happy to take to bed with her and for a few minutes she was quiet. Then she reappeared with her joint of loneliness. This time her mother reminded her that God was with her and sent her back to bed with a reproof. Soon she was heard weeping bitterly, and when her mother went to her little Mabel summed up her sense of misery by exclaiming, "I don't want Happy, and I don't want God; I want somebody with a skin face!"

More Maiden Timidity.

"Well, mum," said the girl as she entered the parlor with her bundle in her hand, "I must be after gettin' away this evenin'." Her mother asked her back to bed with a reproof. Soon she was heard weeping bitterly, and when her mother went to her little Mabel summed up her sense of misery by exclaiming, "I don't want Happy, and I don't want God; I want somebody with a skin face!"

Another thing which may have some bearing upon the case is that General Miles disagrees most radically with the Secretary of war in regard to the canteen question. Miles is opposed to the re-establishment of the post canteen while Secretary Root intends to make a strong recommendation to congress that the anticanter law be repealed so as to permit the sale of beer and light wines in post exchanges. General Miles is understood to have made a strong argument in favor of continuing in force the present law, which excludes intoxicating drinks of all sorts from the soldiers' canteens. He believes that the enforcement of such good effect that the measure should support his views in his report. The report of the lieutenant general is always looked forward to with great interest by army officers because as it is natural to suppose that he would support his views in his report. For the reason that the lieutenant general's report is believed to contain expressions along the same line Secretary Root does not wish it to appear.

Technically the secretary of war has the right to hold up the report of the fear, however that owing to Mr. Root's desire to bring about the two important changes in laws governing our military establishment he will exercise his discretion by suppressing the report to congress. Whether or great influence with the legislators in congress and he believes that with the fact that Miles is in the Philippines and will not return for some months gives the secretary of war ample opportunity to hold up his report without fear of protest on Miles' part.

Another thing which may have some bearing upon Miles' report is that he is a member of the opposition receives no inspiration from General Miles' report.

The Lying Secret Circular

Sent Out Against James R. Fitzgibbon.

George E. Fisher, claiming to represent the anti-saloon league, has sent broadcast secret scurrilous letters attacking the standing and character of J. R. Fitzgibbon, the Democratic candidate for Prosecuting Attorney.

Fisher does this on the eve of the election, when no opportunity can be given for making defense. Fisher is not paid by the anti-saloon league for this disreputable service, but is paid for it by the Republican candidate. Fisher made the remark to a Methodist minister in Bowing Green township, whose name can be furnished, as he handed him one of these circulars: "This is my business now, and I have Republican money to back me up." As Fisher made this remark he emphasized it by jingling money in his pocket.

This is the same George E. Fisher who sent out lying circulars last year against Wm. E. Miller, the Democratic candidate for Senator of this district, and by that means endeavored to defame and injure one of Newark's most valuable and esteemed citizens.

There should be some law to prosecute men who will engage in the baseness of secretly defaming candidates. It is highly proper to discuss the merits and demerits of candidates publicly, but the practice of assailing them in a cowardly, secret manner, by which they can have no opportunity for answering charges thus made against them is one that deserves the condemnation of every good citizen.

is the best medicine for colds.

Another Lie Nailed.

The American Tribune says that Mr. Fitzgibbon has tried but three cases since his appointment. The A-T. was as correct in this as it always is at election time. Here is the list of cases prosecuted by Mr. Fitzgibbon during the seven month time he has served. These were all the cases tried. Several were continued owing to a charge made that the indictments were defective because of the presence of the stenographer in the grand jury room:

Feb. 11, Ohio vs Brooke Good, shooting with intent to wound; convicted.

Feb. 17, Ohio vs. Ed Root, horse stealing; convicted.

Feb. 21, Ohio vs. Chas. Murphy, pocket picking; convicted.

Feb. 24, Ohio vs. Charles Turner, horse stealing; convicted.

May 14, Ohio vs. Charles Murphy, pocket picking; convicted.

May 17, Ohio vs. Clyde Reynolds, grand larceny; convicted.

June 10, Ohio vs. J. R. Channell, grand larceny; convicted of petit larceny.

Charles Murphy was granted a new trial by the Circuit Court, but was again convicted on the new trial.

When the American-Tribune was sued for $20,000 damages by Thos. W. Philipps, the American-Tribune sought the services of J. R. Fitzgibbon and retained him to defend that paper in that law suit and did not retain Mr. Randolph. Why?

Judge Taylor is a lawyer of ripe experience. He has been a Democrat throughout his life, yet as an officer, he is Probate Judge for the whole people, showing no more favoritism to one class than to another. His careful and judicious management of the probate judgeship is admitted by his political enemies and his conduct as an officer of the people is altogether admirable. The people of Licking county will make no mistake in re-electing Judge Taylor, which they will do next Tuesday.

TOMORROW.

Tomorrow will be election day. Democrats, vote early, and see that your Democratic neighbors all go to the polls.

A Test of Their Fitness.

The office of Prosecuting Attorney is one of the most important legal offices in the county and demands a man to fill it of ability and experience. It is only through practical experience in the trial of law cases that a man acquires real ability and effectiveness as a trial lawyer. Conversely, a man who has had but little experience and little practice in the actual trial of cases cannot be expected to cope with more experienced lawyers. The number of cases a lawyer has on hand for trial in court at a given time is certainly a fair index of his standing as a lawyer in the public estimation; an index of his experience as a lawyer, and consequently of his ability. These thoughts are suggested by a comparison of the respective number of cases in which Mr. E. S. Randolph, Republican candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, and Mr. James R. Fitzgibbon, Democratic candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, are engaged in the Common Pleas Court, as shown by the bar docket. There are 410 cases on the bar docket of the Common Pleas Court for this term. Of these Mr. James R. Fitzgibbon has forty cases, or nearly one tenth of the whole, not including the cases that come to him by virtue of his office as Prosecutor. Mr. Randolph has only four cases. Could there be a more significant index of the respective standing of the two men at trials?

If you are opposed to the evils of the bar, and their respective experience in the trial of cases, then this fact?

The candidates on the Democratic ticket this year are all capable, honest and honorable men. Stand by your party and by the glorious principles of Democracy by putting an X mark under the rooster early tomorrow morning.

Put the X Mark Under the Rooster.

There are but two safe ways of voting, and they are as follows:

(1) Place an X mark in the circle under the emblem which means a straight etc., or

(2) Place an X mark in the small space to the left of every man whom you wish to vote.

There is no chance of a ticket marked in either of the above mentioned ways of being thrown out, but the X mark under the rooster is the shortest and safest method.

If you are in favor of Home Rule for our city, vote tomorrow against the party that forced the new George Cox code upon you that to a large extent wipes out Home Rule and greatly increases the expenses of our city government.

Every Democrat should regard it as a sacred duty to vote the straight ticket tomorrow because it is the best ticket. And none should fail to vote.

TOMORROW.

Tomorrow will be election day. Democrats, vote early, and see that your Democratic neighbors all go to the polls.

WHO IS "IT."

(Toledo Bee.)

We are a people full of superstition, and his cabinet representing the entire country. The former represented the state of Pennsylvania. Gov. Odell and Senator Platt represent the great state of New York. But they couldn't do a thing. Then Morgan and Cassatt got their heads together, both representing the STATE OF BUSINESS and the GOVERNMENT OF COMMERCE, Morgan as the real ruler of the nation and Cassatt as the real governor of Pennsylvania. That settled it. There was something doing.

Yet the school histories and geographies tell us we are a republic and the seat of government is at Washington. But then the school books are full of practical jokes and funny stories, nowadays. They tell us that every man in America is his own king, that all the women are queens or princesses; but when we come to deal out the cards we find plenty of jacks, deuces and seven spots.

But we are beginning to find out what's what. It took the coal strike to open the eyes of some people to the fact that the real seat of government is in New York and a red-nosed smart man by the name of Morgan is the actual ruler. He makes things come his way. He can sit in his Wall street office and yank the wires that make the puppets over at Washington go through the Punch and Judy show.

The paper government at Washington had to send emissaries to New York to plead with THE REAL THING to get busy and settle the coal strike.

June 10, Ohio vs. J. R. Channell, grand larceny; convicted of petit larceny.

Charles Murphy was granted a new trial by the Circuit Court, but was again convicted on the new trial.

WHY?

In all the American-Tribune's desperate efforts to charge Democratic extravagance, it has not attempted to show by comparison Republican economy in any locality. If there is such a thing as Republican economy anywhere, why doesn't the A-T. tell us the county, city, township, or village where it exists?

Are Republican counties more economical than Democratic counties? If so, why has not the A-T. named them?

Are taxes lower in Republican cities than Democratic cities of the same size? If so, where are such cities and what are their names?

Are taxes lower in the Republican legislature, but keep Hanna in his present dominant position until another legislature is elected and he will attain his end. Hanna knows his business. The Republicans can be kept in power in this state only with the money raised by Hanna and the corporations. As long as this state of affairs exists, Hanna and the corporations will be able to obtain whatever legislation they want. Their demands at first may frighten and alarm the leaders and the rank and file, but give them time for consideration and they will finally guillotine the whole mess. They may make wry faces and for a time flatly refuse to give in, but in the end Hanna and the fellows who control the purse strings will get all they want.

It is a sorry state of affairs, but it will not be changed until the people, on the present Republican organization from power.

Why has not the A-T. shown the kind of "economy" the Republicans furnished when they got control of the city of Newark?

These would make local object lessons. Why does not the A-T. make a showing of Republican "economy" where our own people can see it and know what the character of the article is like?

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech, and that government by injunction if persisted in, will wreck the liberties of the people.

MUNICIPAL CODE.

7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and be extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.

8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain with the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of its boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators voted.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby direct that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination at that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the co-operation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

THE CRIPPLE'S FRIEND

Methods of Professor Lorenz
Described by a Pupil.

MOST ATTENTIVE TO THE POOR.

Dr. Max Schapiro, Who Studied Under the Viennese Surgeon, Says He Will Not Allow the Needy to Be Slighted—How the Work Is Done at His Own Clinic.

Dr. Max Schapiro of Baltimore will entertain Professor Lorenz, the famous orthopedic surgeon, when he visits that city, says the Philadelphia Press. Dr. Schapiro studied at Vienna under Dr. Lorenz, being with him for more than two years. He gives the following account of the method he uses at his clinic:

"Since 1896 Dr. Lorenz has used the knife only in exceptional cases. He never employed it, however, to the extent that other orthopedic surgeons do. Fifteen years ago he had a clinic with Professor Albert, a Vienna surgeon, but more recently he has established a clinic of his own. Here he and his assistants treat a great number of patients. They come to him from all parts of the world, some with means, and some without, but they all receive the same attention. None of his assistants touches a deformed person without first consulting him."

"At his clinic in Vienna the hours between 10 and 12 o'clock in the morning are for poor people, and often the number waiting amounts to 100 or more. Dr. Lorenz is very particular about the poor and will not permit them to be slighted."

"So much has appeared in the newspapers about his treatment of hip dislocations that the impression exists that this is the only deformity treated by him. This is not the case. Every branch of orthopedic surgery receives the same attention. Straightening out bowed legs and adjusting club feet are operations more common with him than reductions of hip dislocations."

"His manner of treating deformities depends upon the nature of the malady and the age of the afflicted person. In cases of children less than twelve or fourteen years old working with the hands is almost the exclusive remedy. He examines the limb carefully to see if the bone has lost its flexibility, and if it has not the deformity presents few difficulties, although an immense amount of hard work is necessary. If the patient is older, machinery is very often employed, and Dr. Lorenz's clinic is filled with some very original contrivances, each designed for a particular purpose."

"In cases of club feet the tendons are kneaded, the surgeon and his assistants using all their strength to loosen up the drawn tendons. After the work has been thoroughly done, sometimes overdone, for it is necessary to get the tendons in such a condition that the foot can be readily bent, a cast is used, and at the end of a few weeks, when it is removed, the foot is perfectly straight."

"Older persons find the operation severe. Their bones are of course firm, and manipulations have no effect. Machinery is then used, after the patient has been chloroformed. When legs are badly bowed, it is sometimes necessary to crack the bone before the limb can be straightened. In hip dissections an operation is necessary when the deformed person has reached forty years."

"When the deformity is very serious, the plaster cast is worn for six months. At the end of that time the dislocated bone is firmly bound by the tendons which normally keep a limb in its proper position."

Dr. Schapiro said that no time has been fixed for Dr. Lorenz's visit to Baltimore.

MYSTERIOUS EYE DISEASE.

It is Contracted From House Dust and Destroys Sight.

The physicians of McKinley hospital at Trenton, N. J., have noticed recently a peculiar form of eye disease contracted from house dust, in one case destroying the sight of an eye, says the New York Times.

A few days ago Mrs. Isaac Cooper was in the cellar of her home directing her servants in cleaning it out. She took a dust brush from a servant and used it herself on some dust. Immediately after she felt an itching of the left eye, rubbed it, and the eye became very much inflamed. It grew rapidly worse, and her husband, Dr. Cooper, sent her to Trenton to the hospital, where, despite all that could be done, the sight left the eye, and Dr. Fischer, a specialist from Philadelphia, was summoned. Apparently nothing touches the disease, and the specialist says the sight is gone forever.

The physicians are puzzled over the case, which is similar to that of other patients received during October, all of whom had been dusting their homes.

Gould's New Polo Farm.
Thomas M. Paff of Scotch Plains, near Fairfield, N. J., has sold a farm of 200 acres in Washington valley to George Gould, and it is stated that the place will be used to train ponies for polo, says the New York Evening World. All the Gould ponies now at Lakewood will be taken there. The estate is finely shaded, on a mountain slope, and is considered one of the finest pieces of property in that section. The purchase price was $20,000.

Lost—One Lump of Coal.
Come out into the garden, Maud,
For the black bat, night has flown,
And I'm searching for a lump of coal
Which once at a cat was thrown.
I am searching here alone, Maud,
And this is my heart's desire;
I'd give five dollars if I had it now
To put on the kitchen fire.

CORN BREAD.

Fond Recollections of the Days of the Hoe-cake and Flatjacks.

With good meal and a cook following the lessons and traditions of the old regime delicious bread may be baked of Indian meal. But we have grave doubts whether it can be baked as well in a stove as in an open fireplace; but, alas, of the latter only a few remain.

The ashcake, of course, must have ashes. They are indispensable. As well try to produce a mint juice without mint. On the other hand, "flatjacks" need only a well greased frying pan, but skill is required to turn them. That is done by pitching them out of the pan into the air and making them come down flap on the other side. The cornpone may be cooked in a stove or range.

The hoe-cake was originally cooked on a hoe in the fields and in the negro cabin. A skillet will do well enough for it, but must be well greased at the bottom. So, too, with respect to egg or batter bread. As for corn muffins, the appliances of a range are admirably adapted to them.

We wish some millionaire would fit up a Virginia country home in antebellum style and among other things have in it a big open fireplace, a black cook in a gingham dress, with a red bandanna on her head, and also have a half acre mint bed, an iciclehouse and an old time garden filled with raspberries and gooseberries; thyme, sage, currants and all the ordinary table vegetables.

When one of those old-time homes and gardens and kitchens is restored and the host and hostess have entered into possession, we desire to be listed as frequent guest, with a reserved seat in the chimney corner. Then all we shall want will be the zest, the appetite, the voraciousness we possessed when we could eat eighteen rolls and six eggs for breakfast and consume a whole watermelon between meals. But, alas, it would be easier to restore old walls and open fireplaces than to bring back the digestion and storage capacity of a youth that's gone, of a time that's past and never can return.—Richmond Dispatch.

THE COOKBOOK.

Put a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in the water when boiling salmon. This makes it a beautiful red color.

When roasting fowls, put them into an intensely hot oven until carefully browned; after that cook slowly, basting frequently.

When gravy is being made from roast veal, lamb, beef or chicken, use milk instead of water added to the brown drippings left in the pan after the fat has been poured off.

Before baking a bluefish the creole cooks pour over it a sauce made from fresh or canned tomatoes in which garlic is chopped. It is then baked until the flesh of the fish flakes, admitting the sauce.

For a quick cake beat until thick four eggs; add four tablespoonfuls of sugar, half a cupful of flour, a little cinnamon and lemon rind; beat well and spread on a baking pan; bake in quick oven and cut at once.

Cooking teachers say that the ingredients for pancakes, fritters and the like should be mixed fully two hours before the batter is needed. This, they explain, gives the flour a chance to swell, and the batter is better and more wholesome.

A Clever Horse.

A great many horses are fed on the streets from "cabbages" drawn up over their noses and wobbling about in a manner which must make it very uncomfortable to eat one's dinner in that way. The Boston Herald tells of a bright horse down in "Pie Alley" which had nearly reached the bottom of his bag. It wobbled awfully, but the oats were sweet and he was hungry. In front of him stood a wagon, and the wagon had a wheel. Happy thought! He walked up to the wheel, rested his canvas bag on the top of it and finished his dinner to the last oat in a comfortable, leisurely fashion and with a twinkle in his eye. If that was not a triumph of mind over matter, what was it?

How to Keep Young.

One of the secrets of keeping young, vigorous and supple jointed is to continue to practice the activities of youth and to refuse to allow the mind to stiffen the muscles by its suggestion of age limitations. If men like Peter Cooper and William E. Gladstone, who kept up the vitalizing exercises of robust manhood when far into the eighties, had succumbed at forty to the thought of approaching age, how much of their valuable life work would have remained undone!—Success.

A Secret.

"Somehow," said the girl in blue, "I can't help wishing I had accepted him."

"Why, dear?" asked the girl in gray.

"'Why, be sure that he'd never be happy again, and I'm afraid he is."

"Ah, yes," commented the girl in gray reflectively. "As matters are now you can't be sure that he isn't, but if you're married him you could make sure of it!"—Chicago Post.

Depends on Circumstances.

She—Do you regard marriage as a necessity or a luxury?

He—Well, when a man marries a cross-eyed girl who says silly things, whose nose turns up at the end and whose father is worth about $2,000,000, I should say it was a necessity.—Chicago Record-Herald.

GREAT COALING WHARF

Features of One Being Built at Puget Sound Navy Yard.

FOR USE OF BIGGEST WARSHIPS

Plant and Shed Will Unload Coal From Collars, Store It and Redeliver It to Battleships at the Rate of Two Hundred Tons Per Hour. Quarters For the Workmen.

Over at the Puget sound navy yard a piece of construction work is being carried on by a bridging and dredging company that is full of interest in itself as an example of the latest move in modern engineering methods and also significant in its magnitude of the place which the government foresees for the Bremerton yard among the naval stations of the country, says the Seattle Times. The work consists of the construction of a coaling wharf and storage shed adapted to unloading coal brought to the wharf by collars, storing it until it is wanted and then redelivering it to the warships at the rate of 200 tons per hour. The entire structure, including the coaling plant and the wharf beyond, will have a length of approximately 1,300 feet, or nearly a quarter of a mile. This will bring the end of the wharf into thirty feet of water at low tide and will make it possible to coal the largest battleships in the navy at any time.

When this plant is completed, the Puget sound yard will not only be highly efficient, but its advantage over Mare Island in lower cost of maintenance will be even more conspicuous than it is now, for while at Mare island the government is under continual expense in keeping open the ship channels which the shifting bottom of the harbor continually strives to close in Puget sound the conditions are such that permanent improvements in widening and deepening the channels are so in fact as well as in name.

The new plant will be at the western end of the navy yard, about 100 yards east of the boundary. It will consist of two principal parts, the storage shed and coaling plant, which will be 620 feet in length from the shore end, and the wharf, which will extend for 650 feet beyond the outer end of the shed. The shed or storage plant will be divided into bins of suitable size for handling coal easily and quickly and will be connected with the outer wharf by an electric car system. The shed will be 92 feet wide, 55 feet high and 620 feet long, with a total storage capacity of 22,000 long tons. The wharf where the actual coaling operations will be carried on will be supplied with two movable steel towers which will operate along the outer 350 feet of the wharf, leaving about 300 feet of space carrying the car tracks from the main shed to the outer wharf. The towers will be eighty feet in height and will have arms or booms of sixty feet in length that can be swung out over the deck of a collier. In coaling a warship the coal will be run through chutes from bins at the end of the wharf directly into the bunkers of the ship.

For 350 feet along the coaling wharf a channel will be dredged 100 feet wide, 350 feet long and 30 feet deep.

The material secured by the dredging will be used to fill in under the storage shed, with the results that the shed will be put practically on solid ground.

As soon as the contract was signed the contractors began the work of preparation for carrying on the work by the most improved methods of construction. Buildings were erected near the scene of the work, and a little colony of workmen moved in and took possession. Sleeping quarters and a mess house were built for the men, a general office building for the company and an office for the government inspector, together with a power house and shop building. Everything possible is being done by machinery. The plant for driving the 5,000 piles that will be required is made of two land pile drivers with double drum engines and 3,000 pound hammers and two floating pile drivers of heaviest construction.

For building the shed a timber tower sixty feet in height has been erected, equipped with a four spool bridge erecting engine. The equipment also includes a steam cut off saw for cutting and squaring all timbers used in construction, an air compressing plant which will furnish power for driving all wood boring tools and air hammers for driving spikes. The materials to be used will include 3,500,000 feet of Puget sound fir, 5,000 piles and 500 tons of iron and steel.

For providing suitable quarters for the men the contractors have built two houses, one to be used as sleeping quarters and the other for the kitchen and dining hall. The building used for the living rooms is 24 by 108 feet and is partitioned into rooms 8 by 9 feet, with two berths in a room. Through the center of the building runs a corridor which will be supplied with stoves or some form of heating apparatus and will be used by the men as a place of assembly during the winter evenings. The cookhouse and dining room are contained in a building 20 by 56 feet. The dining room has twelve tables, with accommodations for 100 men.

GREAT APPLE RECORD.

Connecticut Man Says He Picked 135 Bushels in a Day.

Frederick Judd of Cheshire, Conn., claims the record as champion apple picker. He went to New Haven the other day with an affidavit signed by a justice of the peace asserting that in the space of nine hours he had picked forty-five barrels of apples, each barrel containing three bushels.

Growth by Electricity.

Dr. Maurice Springer recently read an interesting paper at the Academy of Medicine in Paris on animal growth, specifying four elements of nutrition having most effect in inducing organic development, namely, lecithin, potash, oxides and water, says the New York Herald.

The doctor also pointed out that electricity is a powerful agent in the development of growth. By applying a Faraday current to certain muscles and joints of children both growth and increase of weight have been obtained.

How He Utilized a Warship's Searchlights to Give His Followers Some Evidence of His So Called Miraculous Power—Difficulties of Campaigning Against the Somalis.

President Mitchell the other afternoon was the recipient of a gold badge and gold watch, the gift of Polish, Lithuanian and Slavonian members of the United Mine Workers, says a Wilkesbarre (Pa.) dispatch to the New York Times. The badge bears his monogram, "J. M." in diamonds just underneath the bar containing the pin by which it is fastened to the coat lapel. Below this is the button of the United Mine Workers of America, from which hangs a pendant—a tiny pick and shovel, with miner's lamp in the center, and underneath a medallion containing the seal of the organization.

The presentation took place at President Mitchell's headquarters, and a large crowd listened to the speeches of presentation and acceptance. Mr. Mitchell in the course of his remarks said:

"These gifts will ever remind me of the duty I owe to the great army of workers who have reposed confidence in me and followed my leadership during the trying times. I shall regard it a great favor if you will express to the Polish, Lithuanian and Slavonian people my gratitude for the confidence they have so freely given me. I beg you to say to them that my highest ambition shall be to promote the welfare and advance the interests of all the men and women in their labor for a livelihood."

"I look forward to the time when trials shall be no more; when peace and justice and right shall be secured for those who toll; when labor and capital, each recognizing its rights and obligations to society, shall work in harmony for the common welfare of our country and the general good of all our people."

When Mr. Mitchell left for Washington, he was accompanied to the station by a large and enthusiastic crowd, and when he boarded the train he was heartily cheered.

RECLAIMING OF MANILA.

Governor Taft's Measures to Prevent Further Epidemics.

Governor Taft and the health board of Manila, according to official reports to the war department at Washington, have agreed to a comprehensive plan for reclaiming the city of Manila from the unsanitary conditions which prevail there, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The experience during the past few months in controlling the epidemic of cholera has satisfied the American authorities that only the most rigorous measures will suffice to protect Manila from pestilence whenever occasion arises.

It has been decided that buildings which are insanitary must come down and be removed, the low places in the city are to be filled in, suitable sewerage is to be insisted on, walls are to be built to hold back tide water and new buildings will be permitted only in compliance with strict regulations as to plumbing and construction which will insure healthful conditions.

It is estimated that when the buildings in the slums of the city are torn down over 40,000 people will have to be moved out into temporary camps.

Governor Taft announces that he will do this and have the people carefully looked after in their temporary quarters.

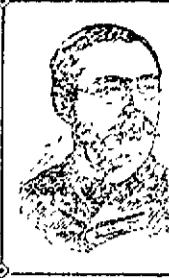

Captain McGregor, the city engineer, has taken part in the conferences and gives it as his opinion that it will be necessary to fill in over the whole site of the city in order to secure the grades that will make it possible to drain the streets and houses and accomplish such sanitary conditions. The cost will be large. It is estimated that the reclamation of the San Nicolas beach will cost at least $500,000.

AN OLD FAVORITE

DANNY DEEVER

By Rudyard Kipling

RUDYARD KIPLING, the best known of living English writers, was born at Bombay, India, in 1865, was educated in England and attended 17 schools to enter Journalism. In 1882 he returned to England, and since then he has resided for a number of years in the United States and has also traveled much. Kipling's fame, already won of late, seems to be confirmed by critics, most of his best and greatest work, his writings being selected for the best and dramatic. In the opinion of many he has yet reached the zenith of his powers. "The Vicar of Wakefield" now resides in England.

WHAT are the bugles blowin' for?" said Files-on-Parade.

"To turn you out, to turn you out," the Color-Sergeant said. "What makes you look so white, so white?" said Files-on-Parade.

"I'm deadin' what I've got to watch," the Color-Sergeant said. "For they're hangin' Danny Deever, you can hear the Dead March play."

The regiment's in "ollow square"—they're hangin' him today; They've taken of his buttons off 'em cut his stripes away, An' they're hangin' Danny Deever in the mornin'.

"What makes the rear rank breathin' so 'ard?" said Files-on-Parade.

"It's bitter cold, it's bitter cold," the Color-Sergeant said.

"What makes that front-rank man fall down?" said Files-on-Parade.

"A touch of sun, a touch of sun," the Color-Sergeant said.

"They are hangin' Danny Deever, they are marchin' of 'em round, They've kill'd Danny Deever by 'is coffin on the ground;

An' 'e'll swing in 'arf a minute for a sneakin' shavin' hound—Oh, they're hangin' Danny Deever in the mornin'.

"Is cot was right—and cot to mine," said Files-on-Parade.

"E's sleepin' out an' far to-night," the Color-Sergeant said.

"I've drunk in beer a score of times," said Files-on-Parade.

"It's drinkin' bitter beer alone," the Color-Sergeant said.

"They are hangin' Danny Deever, you must mark 'im to 'is place,

For'e shot a comrade sleepin'—you must look 'im in the face;

Nine hundred of 'is country an' the regiment's disgrace,

While they're hangin' Danny Deever in the mornin'.

"What's that so black agin the sun?" said Files-on-Parade.

"It's Danny fightin' 'ard for life," the Color-Sergeant said.

"What's that that whispers over-head?" said Files-on-Parade.

"It's Danny's soul that's passin' now," the Color-Sergeant said.

For they're done with Danny Deever, you can hear the quickstep play.

The regiment's in column, an' they're marchin' us away;

Ho! the young recruits are shakin', an' they'll want their beer today,

After hangin' Danny Deever in the mornin'.

WRONG MEN EXAMINED

When Life Insurance Papers Were Made Out—Many Policies Paid Before Arrests Were Made

...Poison Suspected.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 3.—An insurance swindling scheme which equals, if it does not eclipse, the noted Rathbun case, has just been unearthed here by detectives of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Three men one of them an agent of the company, are in jail, and the detectives are still working on the case, with the assurance that further sensational developments will result.

According to statements made by the officers the frauds have been perpetrated in the vicinity of Chihuahua, Mexico, covering a period of 12 months and several genuine policy holders are missing or have died mysteriously and suddenly, and the inference is that they were poisoned.

The deaths which are regarded with suspicion, occurred at Chihuahua, Mexico, where the bodies are to be exhumed for traces of poison. Bogus beneficiaries are known to have collected $25,000, but the real extent of the frauds cannot be ascertained for some time to come. An application for a policy of $100,000 caused the first suspicion of crookedness to be entertained, and brought about the investigation which resulted in the arrest last night of three men who are accused of the swindling, and who will be further accused of graver crimes, it is said.

The prisoners are C. T. Richardson, the agent, W. Mason alias Manning, everything was running smoothly for the alleged swindlers until a recent application was made in the name of Marshall Sanguinet for $100,000 in insurance, David Sanguinet being named as the beneficiary. The company exercised its usual diligence in investigating applications finally reaching the conclusion that there was something wrong and the arrests followed. The prisoners had been in El Paso but three days when taken into custody. They refused to talk.

alias Meredith, alias David Sanguinet and W. J. Gray, alias Marshall Sanguinet, alias W. B. Hill. Richardson operated throughout the Southwest and resided at Chihuahua, Mex. He wrote policies throughout this section and the officers allege that Gray and Mason were his confederates, and were frequently used as beneficiaries under aliases.

One of the schemes was to insure men in the last stages of consumption, substituting one of his confederates for examination by the physicians and dividing the money with the consumptive's heirs. James Devers and a man named Mitchell were insured for $10,000 and $15,000 respectively, and both died mysteriously at Chihuahua, one of them in Richardson's house. In the case of Devers the money was collected here by Mason under the alias of Meredith, and Mitchell's money was collected by a woman, the wife of one of the prisoners.

Bowser a Handy Man

A Broken Doorbell Arouses Him to the Necessity of Economy—He Censors His Wife and Says She Is Bringing Him to the Poorhouse, Then Makes the Repairs Himself

Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.

DINNER was over, and Mr. Bowser had sat down to his newspaper and cigar when Mrs. Bowser carelessly observed:

"I won't be sure about it, but I think our doorbell is out of order. A lady called this afternoon, and it failed to ring."

"It's out of order, of course," replied Mr. Bowser as he looked up. "As every thing else in this house is out of order why wouldn't the doorbell be? I suppose you stood there and rang it till there was nothing left?"

"Isn't any doorbell liable to get out of order now and then?"

"No, ma'am, it isn't. Ours is the only doorbell in this town which ever gets out of order. Do you know what it has cost me to have doorbell men running up here every five minutes for the last ten years?"

"It hasn't been out of order for a year before."

"Hasn't it? That shows how little you heed what is going on in this house. To my certain knowledge that doorbell has had to be repaired twenty-eight times in the last twelve months. That is over twice a month, once in every thirteen days! Is it any wonder—is it any wonder, Mrs. Bowser, that I can't bank a dollar to save my neck? Is it any wonder that I have nightmare every night and kick and toss and groan and have dreams of the poorhouse?"

She didn't answer, and he rose up and stood before her, spectacles in one hand and newspaper in the other, and continued:

"The doorbell busted again—busted for the twenty-ninth time in a year! A thousand dollars paid out in twelve months to repair busted doorbells! We might as well quit right here and go to the poorhouse."

"You can't blame me, Mr. Bowser," she protested.

"If you are not to blame, then who is?" he shouted. "If you didn't stand on the steps and jab and jam on the button until the wire melted or broke, who did? Don't try to lay it on some caller or agent. If there is a worse run house than this in all America, I'd like to know its location. I come home after a hard day's work, and what do I find?"

"You find the doorbell out of order," quietly replied Mrs. Bowser, "but I can pay for the repairs out of my pin money. You get excited over a very small thing."

"Mrs. Bowser, I'm not excited, but simply put out over your carelessness. You bust the doorbell, you break a pane of glass, you smash a mirror, you kick a leg off the sofa, you—" "When did I do these things?"

"Never you mind! No wife should talk back to her husband. While your carelessness cost me over $3,000 the last year, I shall say nothing more at this time. The bell will not only be fixed, but I will fix it myself. In fact, I was just wishing there was something I could tinker at for an hour."

"If you will let it go till tomorrow, I will get a man to do it."

"The bell will be duly repaired within half an hour, Mrs. Bowser. Is my toolbox down cellar?"

"I believe so, but I wish you would not meddle with it. If anything happens, you—you!"

"Nothing will happen, and no one will blame you. If I can save $1,000 a year by keeping that doorbell in repair, we shall be so much ahead of the game. It's all owing to the fact that I'm a handy man and make my own repairs that we pull through the year. I presume the batteries have become exhausted and I can fix them in about five minutes."

He disappeared down cellar and was absent for half an hour. When he reappeared, he was covered with whitewash and cobwebs, but there was a look of satisfaction on his face as he said:

"The repairs are finished. Mrs. Bowser, and I have saved $50 in cash. In other words, we'd had to have an electrician around here for five days at an expense of $10 a day."

"What! Just to fix a doorbell?" she asked.

"What is your husband's alma mater?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Oh," her hostess replied, "Josiah ain't got any. He always signs his initials just plain old fashioned without any puttin' on."—Chicago Record-Herald.

FREAK ADORNMENTS.

Strange Household Ornaments That May Be Seen in England.

Many are the strange household and garden adornments scattered up and down the English countryside. In a Sussex village is part of a garden palisade made wholly out of the swords of swordfishes. The lady who owns the garden got the strange palisade from her brother, who had originally sported it in the tropics.

Near Leeds is a summer house made wholly of buttons of every imaginable kind, and in the same county is a room the walls of which are adorned entirely by the ribbons of cigars, nearly 20,000 of these being represented. From garret to basement in the large house of a Leeds mineral water manufacturer is a gigantic scrapbook, every notable theatrical poster of the last twenty years being pasted on the walls.

A north country banker living near Wakefield has a great dining room the whole of the walls of which are the wooden and iron doors of eminent castles and historic buildings, and at Liscard, in Cheshire, is a room that contains hundreds of picture frames made of every imaginable substance, from leather to tigers' bones, one frame being placed, within another according to size so that the whole surface is covered with frames.

In Liverpool is a room—that of a dentist whose grandfather occupied the same premises—that contains many mirrors and pictures the frames of which are made entirely of sharks' teeth. Near Birmingham a manufacturer has a study that is lined, even to the roof, with nothing but chains of various thicknesses and padlocks of different sizes.—Pearson's.

DON'T GET TOO FULL.

A Lesson That May Be Learned From the Habits of the Bees.

"Don't stir up a beehive unless you know it is a rich one," said an apiarist to a visitor at his bee farm.

"I think that I would leave them alone altogether," was the reply. "They have too angry a buzz about them to win my confidence."

The ringing not only continued, but grew louder, and there was a buzzing from down cellar that sent the cool into the back yard and Mrs. Bowser upstairs. Mr. Bowser was game, however. He couldn't tell how many volts had been let loose to hunt him down nor how many amperes were lurking in ambush to strike him dead, but he galloped to and fro and made use of the hammer, the pinchers, the corkscrew and the screwdriver by turns. While he was working a crowd was gathering in front of the house, and he had just found the spot where the wires were crossed and cut them all when a policeman pushed his way up to the door and demanded:

"Now, where's the murder or fire or whatever it is, and has the villain got out by the back way?"

A lady stepped into a piano warehouse recently to engage a tuner, but before doing so insisted upon the strongest assurance that the tuner was responsible. She was so determined that the manager became curious to know the reason for her disbelief in the reliability of tuners. She gave her experience with the last tuner she had, and this is the story as she told it:

He had finished tuning the piano when he looked up and said:

"Your instrument was in awful condition. You ought to have sent for me sooner."

"It was tuned only three months ago."

"Then the man who did it certainly didn't know his business."

"No?"

"No, ma'am. He had better be doing street cleaning than tuning pianos. Why, my dear madam, a delicate instrument like a piano needs fingers equally delicate to handle it, combined with an ear of unerring accuracy. The individual who attempted to tune this instrument last evidently possessed neither of these. In fact, I am free to say he did it more harm than good."

"Indeed."

"Indeed he did. May I ask who it was who so abused my instrument?"

"It was myself."

"Madam, you are wrong. I never tuned a piano in this house before."

"Probably not, but you tuned that instrument nevertheless, or made a botch of it in attempting to do so. It belongs to Mrs. Jones, who sent it here while she is out of town. She told me you always had tuned it and to send for you when."

But the unhappy man fled with such haste as to make his coat tails a good substitute for a card table.—Philadelphia Musician.

A Punetual Bird.

What tempts the little humming bird that we see in our gardens to travel every spring from near the equator to as far north as the arctic circle, leaving behind him, as he does, for a season, many tropical delights?

He is the only one of many humming birds that pluckily leaves the land of gayly colored birds to go into voluntary exile in the north, east of the Mississippi. How it stirs the imagination to picture the solitary, tiny migrant, a mere atom of bird life, moving above the range of human sight through the vast dome of the sky! borne swiftly onward by rapidly vibrating little wings, he covers the thousands of miles between his winter home and his summer one by easy stages and arrives at his chosen destination, weather permitting, at approximately the same date year after year.—Country Life in America.

The Woman and Her Face.

Once upon a time a woman had a quarrel with her features because they made ugly faces at her when she looked in the glass. She scolded and scolded, but it all did no good.

Finally she sat in front of her mirror, and with rouge, powder and black pencil went deliberately to work to show her face how wrong it was and succeeded.

After a time she smiled a smile of intense satisfaction, and her face smiled pleasantly back at her.

FACTS CONCERNING SLEEP.

Even a Midday Nap Is Better Than the Noon Meal.

The scholar and professional man, like the anxious housewife, is apt to carry his cares to bed, and insomnia becomes a curse. Men and women who are busied in getting and gaining the world, the banker, all alike, fail to secure that self control which can manage the mind as well asleep as awake.

Normal sleep should be purely a physiological repose similar to the rest of animals, who go to sleep with the darkness and awake with the light. Some one has said that sleep is like hunger and thirst, representing a diminution of energy throughout the entire body. I hardly think this can be true, but in my judgment sleep rather suggests the diminution of the energy of the brain, and he is a wise man who takes the hint when brain fag sets in of an evening and goes comfortably and properly to bed.

Of course it goes without saying that night is not the only time for sleep. Men and women who are busy could steal just a few minutes before or after the noonday luncheon to catch a little nap, and, indeed, I am nearly sure that the noonday nap is worth far more than the noonday meal, for the digestive processes are surely hindered during the periods of mental activity, and it is the exceptional person in this busy world of ours who is not called upon to use all his brain and brawn to make a living. It has been my habit to advise mothers to steal a while away from every "cumbersome care" and, even if sleep fails to be woed, to take about twenty minutes every day in absolute peace and quietness, diverting the mind from all anxieties and relaxing all the muscles. A habit of this kind is easily acquired, and we might have fewer neurotic women, whose nerves make life hideous to their families, if a word like this, spoken from considerable experience, were heeded.—American Boy.

A Dog Policeman.

A gentleman who lives at Greenock, in Scotland, once received a young Scotch terrier, which he tied up in his office to prevent him from straying. He was absent from his office for a short time, and on his return he found the terrier gone. The youngster from the hills, liking freedom better than being chained to a stool, had quietly gnawed the string through and bolted. But Snider, a bulldog, was also absent, and this was a cause of great surprise, for he was never known to wander from the house without his master. A report was sent round that the dogs were stolen or lost, and the town was scared in vain.

The search was given up; then, late at night, Snider was seen in the distance making for home, dragging something after him. This was found to be the young terrier that had bolted. nearer and nearer he drew, dragging him along, in spite of his efforts to go the opposite way, and at last he landed him at the office door. Not content with bringing the traitor thus far, he tried to drag him up to the spot where he was tied before he broke away.

T. W. PHILIPPS DEAD

Cause of His Death Has Not Been Determined... Doctors Do Not Agree...The End Came Early Monday Morning.

Ex-Prosecuting Attorney Thomas W. Philipps died in his room, No. 7, on the third floor above R. C. Bigbee's Lost Run saloon, about three o'clock Monday morning after an illness of about eight hours, the cause of his death being a matter upon which there is some dispute.

Mr. Philipps had not, for the past several months, been in the best of health, about two weeks ago having suffered a severe hemorrhage of the stomach.

On Sunday he got up late in the morning, and seemed to be in particularly good spirits and his usual health. He left the room and returned in the afternoon, when he lay on the bed, but was not asleep at 6 o'clock, at which time he was in conversation with his niece, Mrs. Hattie Frederick, and her daughter, Miss Laura.

He suddenly sank into unconsciousness and Dr. D. E. Stephan was called in, who administered medical aid, calling Dr. A. S. Barnes in consultation about 9 o'clock.

There were no changes in the condition of the patient until 12 o'clock, when Mrs. Frederick telephoned to Dr. S. D. McClure, who came immediately.

Dr. McClure diagnosed the case differently from the other physicians, and found circumstances to strengthen his position.

Dr. McClure said Monday morning: "When I got to Mr. Philipps' room I found him lying in an unconscious condition, with symptoms of opium poisoning. His pulse was nearly normal, his face pale, his breathing peculiar, and he was cold all over. I found an envelope with the end torn off, lying on the stand, with the word 'morphine' written across it. On the same stand was a one-half ounce bottle of aconite from which about 17 drops had been taken. There is no question in my mind but that he had taken the contents of the envelope or some part of them, the amount of aconite not

Thomas Wendell Philipps was born in the Welsh Hills northwest of Newark 51 years ago. He attended Denison university, but completed his education at Wooster graduating from that institution. For some years after leaving college he was principal of the Newark High school, afterwards being admitted to the bar, his legal career having been spent in Newark. He served one term as Prosecuting Attorney, and was re-elected for a second, serving nearly two years, or until last February, when he resigned and J. R. Fitzgibbon the present prosecutor became appointed in his place.

He was a widower and leaves one daughter aged 11 years, who lives in this city.

T. W. PHILIPPS' FUNERAL.
The funeral of the late Thomas W. Philipps will take place on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the residence of Samuel Philipps, in Granville township, interment being made in the Philipps' grave yard in the Welsh Hills.
